

Lora Lyndon was a member of a large Scottish entertainment family that had toured the country in portable theatres for generations and this Pierrot Company was just one of the many that came to Portobello over the years.

The Poole family was also prominent in Scottish popular entertainment and later owned cinemas in Edinburgh and Glasgow.